

The Academy of General Dentistry has established a relationship with Zoll Medical Corporation, the leading cardiac resuscitation company. Zoll manufactures the AED Plus™, the first and only Full-Rescue automated external defibrillator designed for infrequent rescuers. Unlike most AEDs, which simply administer shocks, the ZOLL AED Plus Defibrillator is the world's first AED that:

- Supports the complete chain of survival (from “Check Responsiveness” through chest compressions.)
- Supports CPR with instantaneous feedback for rate and depth of chest compressions.
- Helps rescuer with all sudden cardiac arrest (SCA) victims. (even those for which no shock is advised)
- A one-piece pad simplifies positioning, eliminates delays, and makes it virtually impossible for incorrect placement to occur.
- Powered by lithium camera batteries available from retail stores (that last 5 years)
